

Pokémon Mystery Dungeon: Explorers of the Azure Sky

Pokémon Changes

General Changes:

- The Fairy type has been added to the game, courtesy of Irdkwia. Pokémon that have had their typings changed from Generation 6 onward (the Clefairy line, Azumarill, etc.) have had their typings updated accordingly. Other Pokémon have been given the typing as well, listed below. Additionally, Fairy type moves have been added to the game, including Moonblast, Play Rough, and Dazzling Gleam. Most Fairy types have at least one or all of these moves to give them options for STAB.

As a side note, a Fairy-type gummi, the Pixie Gummi, has also been added, and has been added to the dungeon, job reward, and Kecleon Shop item pools.

- Most Pokémon have had their movepools (level up, TM, and egg moves) and abilities changed or updated.

Many Pokémon with ability changes have been given their Hidden Abilities, if it exists within Gen 4. Others have been given new abilities typically reflecting their Pokédex entries or some other aspect of what they are.

A select few have had their IQ groups changed. Changes to stats have not been made as every stat can go up to 255 in Mystery Dungeon and thus are not typically important.

- Pokémon that learn a specific move upon reaching max IQ at a certain level(Frenzy Plant, Hydro Cannon, and Blast Burn for the starters, Draco Meteor for Dragon types) now learn these moves at level 70, though still require max IQ.
- Many Pokémon have been given custom typings, listed below(i.e. Charizard is Fire/Dragon).
- A number of new Pokémon have been added, and have been added to wild encounter tables. These include Alolan Vulpix and Ninetales, the Snivy line, Sylveon, and others. More new Pokémon are planned, however added them is currently limited. Additionally, Arceus has also been added and is recruitable at the top of Destiny Tower.
